

nology. Teleradiology is already well-developed at the Hospital – our lab is fully computerized; results are now available online in real time, remotely and electronically. And the Ministry has embarked on a national health management solution system which will now see the true computerization of the primary, secondary, and tertiary care facilities, where electronic medical recording will be the order of the day, allowing for the seamless movement of patients from the ‘point of connect’ to the hospital and across the continuum of care.”

CaribSupply has been a premier supplier of pure oxygen and bulk oxygen storage systems to medical facilities across the Caribbean.

We:

- Deliver and supply compressed oxygen in cylinders
  - Install bulk liquid oxygen systems for efficient supply
  - Install piped medical gases service
  - Provide reserve supplies of oxygen as required
- Medical institutions also rely on CaribSupply for anesthetic, surgical gases and specialty gases manufactured to the highest purity.

As Queen Elizabeth Hospital embarks upon its second half century, Dr. James proudly asserts that the facility’s diversity of services is unrivaled by any public healthcare system. “Queen Elizabeth Hospital provides the widest range of public health services that you can find in any one setting,” he declares. “Persons can access care without having to worry about the costs. And the fees that we charge to non-nationals and those who come from overseas are exceedingly low, but the quality is exceedingly high. The breadth and depth of services that we offer is unsurpassed.”
